

ABSTRACT

It is intended to provide a system which is safe to both of patients and medical staffs and by which medical accidents can be prevented.

5 An admixture machine for infusion 1 has an information input unit for inputting predetermined information involving data concerning at least the body surface area, AUC or the body weight of the patient; a liquid delivery does calculation unit for determining the does of a liquid form drug and the amount of
10 a diluent and calculating the delivery does of the liquid form drug and the diluent based upon the determined does; a guide unit for inserting a mixing tube which provides channels of the liquid form drug and the diluent; and liquid delivery units which deliver the liquid form drug and the diluent based on the delivery
15 does of the liquid form drug and the diluent as determined in the liquid delivery does calculation unit.